1. Three U-2 biplanes were standing on the western edge of the Weimar (N 51/ J 57) improvised airfield on 3 September 1950. The planes were covered with tarpaulins but an instrument, probably a machine gun, protruded beyond the rear seat. There was no flying. A footpath for civilians crossed the landing field. Three small cantonment buildings were on the eastern edge of the field. Five soldiers wearing blue epaulets were seen. A gas-works, in front of which three light AA guns were emplaced, was on the southern edge of the field. *

[REDACTED] Comment. The field was continually occupied by individual PO-2s from 1947 to 1949. It is believed that the planes were assigned to an army headquarters as courier aircraft.
